

COOLEST JOB EVER MEET TJ

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

Everyone my name is TJ Mihelic. I'm a senior analyst out of the Chicago office and I'm currently on a local project here in Chicago for an energy client and we're helping them optimize their spend within their marketing sales organization.

This is part of my commute to work walk into the train right now to go downtown. Today I have my first client meeting to get a better understanding of how specific parts of their business operate so looking forward to that today.

My role on a daily basis has been pretty dynamic over the past few years I think it's true for most strategy analysts as well because you might move around between industries and functions as you move on project to project and the type of work that you do tends to change as well so you know one project that might be more focused on the analysis in Excel and next it might be more focused on a highly strategic proposal with more client meetings than the last one.

Alright, we're here at Chicago's French market, taking a quick break to grab some lunch we've got a salad from pastoral we're keeping it healthy today.

One thing that I've loved about the past two years of my role is that my teams have definitely been very supportive in helping me develop the skills that I like to focus on the project while making sure that they also align to the work that we need to ultimately deliver.

As far as work/life balance at Accenture goes I've found that it's really important to be active during the week. The best way that I do that is by working out so that's what I'm doing today before working.

I chose Accenture because of learning opportunities. I wanted to work in a fast-paced environment across a broad spectrum of topics with smart people who are willing to help me learn and I definitely feel like I've had that opportunity at Accenture.